

Why does Log Tools attach to today's log when I load tomorrow's log?

The reason for this is when attaching the program trades time zone information. To make sure that this does not happen on your system make sure that the time zone settings on the On Air machine and the Log Tools machine match, including the Daylight Savings Time setting.

Here is an example of the Time Zone settings for Windows XP. Make sure that both the On Air and Log Tools machines are set to the same settings including putting a checkmark in the Automatically adjust clock for daylight saving changes at the bottom if your area recognizes daylight savings time.
